NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER
HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.
Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.
It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.
It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

MANIFEST DESTINY IN THE WEST.

From the Overland Monthly for August

That remarkable succession of circumstances quoted oftentimes as "Manifest Destiny," is nowhere in history more wonderfully illustrated than in the rapid spread of Americanism from the eastern to the western shores of the North American continent.

Does this opening sentence seem to smack of the national self praise and confidence in our sacred mission as exemplars of all the highest virtues of republicanism and free institutions? Belief in a manifest destiny ought, indisputably, to inspire us with enthusiasm to fulfill it to the utmost. But it was not of that belief or that sentiment we were thinking when we took up the pen to utter our dogmatical first sentence. It was the result of a mental review of the written and unwritten history of the last eighty years, as it applies to the march of empire in the Western hemisphere.

It was about eighty years ago that Spain finally despaired of holding her discovered territories in the Pacific north of the forty-second parallel, and quietly retired from her most northern post on Vancouver and Quadra's Island, having first made a treaty with Great Britain to the effect that the British lion should not seize it in absence of its original claimant. Perhaps Spain hoped to gain a little strength in some way; or, at the worst, to make an advantageous bargain with some power more beloved than Great Britain by the Spanish heart.

However that may have been, one of the high contracting parties to the before mentioned treaty evidently regarded the agreement more as a matter of courtesy than fact. The British Exploring Expedition, under Vancouver, had made too many pleasing observations on the west coast, and along the picturesque shores of the great inlet named Puget Sound, after one of Vancouver's lieutenants, to cherish a very impressive regard for the sacredness of the contract. On the contrary, Vancouver continued to amuse himself for months with "taking possession" of the various points along the coast of what is now the United States territory, and in rechristening islands, mountains, capes and rivers, which were already known and named by the Spaniards.

But the "cloud no bigger than a man's hand," which was to overshadow the heaven of promise then shining on Vancouver, had already appeared. Among the vessels of different nationalities then resorting to the north-west coast to trade with the Indians for fur, which were taken thence to China, were a number of American vessels, owned, some of them, in New York, but chiefly the property of a Boston company. These Yankee traders were the objects of peculiar contempt to the English companies in the same trade, because, as their officers represented, the American captains were unacquainted with the science of navigation which should lead to distinction in discovery, and otherwise inferior as officers and gentlemen. Instead of doing business in grand style, like the English companies, these American captains were guilty of gathering up at the islands on their route sea-otter skins, sandal-wood, and other trifles, for which they contrived to make a market in China, and which they sold, in addition to their furs, for cargoes of teas and silks, to be conveyed in their turn to Boston—thus realizing a double profit.

It does not appear that the complaints or criticisms of the British officers had any effect in deterring these trading Yankee captains from the pursuit of gain in their own fashion. Certain it is that their industry and enterprise helped materially to advance the national commerce at a period when that commerce had but just begun to recover from the crushing effects of the Revolutionary War.

It is probable enough that Vancouver shared the prejudices of the English captains against the Bostonians. However that may be, he made the singular mistake of sailing in broad daylight, of a fine May day, directly past the mouth of that great, mystical river which, under the name of San Roque was known to, although unexplored by, the Spanish navigators; was spoken of by other navigators, who only guessed its existence, as the "River of the West;" and which had acquired, in some other unknown way, on the other side of the continent, the name of "Oregon."

The reality of this much talked-of river, which it was hoped would open communication for ships with Hudson's Bay and the North Atlantic, was one of the things Vancouver wished particularly to prove or disprove. Not so was it written in the book of Fate. As we have said, he sailed past it in fair daylight, with his eyes on it, and pronounced the opening in the coast to be only an inlet; into which, if a river flowed, it was of no importance. But he did not know that a few days previous, one of those Boston vessels so obnoxious to British ideas had sailed past that same opening under similarly favorable circumstances: and the captain had formed an opinion of it so different from that Vancouver entertained that he could not get the matter out of his mind. He was no leader of a well furnished expedition, as Vancouver was. But he said to himself: There is the mouth of the much talked of, long sought river; and he entered his impressions on his log-book. Still bent upon business, he pursued his course up along the coast, so close in shore that he discovered a bay of considerable size and importance, which now bears his name. After leaving this bay, which he ventured to enter, he again bethought himself of the river he had discovered, and was heading in that direction when he fell in with the British exploring squadron. Being hailed, he held a conversation with the officers, to whom he very frankly made known his supposed discovery, with its latitude and longitude. To this communication Vancouver replied that he too had seen the opening, but thought it unimportant. It might have been something in the tone in which the English officers begged to differ from him that fired Captain Gray's heart with a determination to settle the controversy without delay. Pursuing his course southward he came once more in sight of the opening in the coast, and the weather continuing favorable, sailed without difficulty through the northern channel, across its formidable bar, and brought his vessel to anchor more than twenty miles inside the line of breakers.

We have always felt inclined to envy Captain Gray the triumph of that memorable day. We hope he felt the grandeur of it, and enjoyed it. It is something to discover a large river anywhere. But this one—so long desired, and when beheld so broad, so blue, so beautifully set in picturesque mountain shores!

The glory and contentment were enough for that day. The next, Captain Gray went ashore, and after exploring as well as he could the neighboring country, thickset with noble forests, returned to his ship, and recorded in his log-book the river's name. "I have called it," said he, "Columbia's River." Having remained several days to trade with the natives who crowded about the ship in their canoes, and to explore a few miles more of the river, he put to sea again, and went about his business in more northern waters.

What did Vancouver when the Yankee captain left him? He took counsel of prudence, and sent a lieutenant back with one of the vessels to take a second and closer view of the disputed inlet—if not outlet. When Lieutenant Meares beheld the terrors of the bar he decided not to take the vessel in, but to pursue his investigation in a smaller craft belonging to the ship's outfit. In this gig, or whatever it was, Mears entered the river and proceeded to ascend it. Having reached a small bay on the northern side some fifteen or twenty miles inside the bar, he found there a small vessel at anchor belonging to a trading captain of his own nation—an Englishman, named Baker, who gave to the bay his own name, which it continues to bear at this day. Captain Baker had fallen in with Gray, and being told of his discovery, had made haste to confirm the report by actual observation.

When Lieutenant Meares had explored the river some eighty miles from its mouth, which his smaller craft easily permitted him to do, he returned to the commander of the squadron with his report, and Vancouver claimed for the British nation the credit of discovering the great river of the West. The actual river, be said, did not commence for some distance above Gray's anchorage. That was the quibble resorted to some years later, when British claims and boundary lines were being considered. That quibble, however, did not hold, as history assures us. That lucky persistence of Capt. Gray's decided the question of right by discovery in favor of America.

Decency requiring that England should pay some outward regard to her agreement with Spain concerning the north-west coast of America, and the United States being too poor and weak to set up claims, even if they felt disposed to dispute the right of Spain, the vessels of each nation were withdrawn from that portion of the Pacific, and silence and obscurity reigned once more over those remote seas. In the meantime important political changes had been going on in Europe. Louisiana, which then then comprised all the territory not belonging to Spain, west of the sources of the Mississippi, and south of the forty-ninth parallel, had been ceded by France to Spain thirty years before the events just spoken of. But in 1800 France once more regained possession of Louisiana, and in 1803 sold it to the United States.

Could the British lion, hating the fleur de lis, and fearing the growth of the young American eagle, suppress a desire to seize some portion of the spoils of war, or the profits of barter? What had not been openly taken from Spain might be craftily alienated from the United States by the help of one of its princely corporations—and, according to leonine ethics, should be.

When President Jefferson recommended and set on foot the expedition of Lewis and Clarke, with a purpose of examining the country west of the Rocky mountains, and discovering the sources of the Columbia, the British Government sought to forestall him by means of no common excellence at hand—the expert pioneers of the Northwest Fur Company. When Lewis and Clarke left their encampment on the Missouri river in the spring of 1805, to proceed on their journey toward the Pacific through an unexplored country, one of the leaders of the Northwest Company was just on their heels. In Oct. of that year they had reached the head waters of the southern branch of the Columbia and very fortunately were able to make their way to the mouth of the lower river before winter set in. Not so fortunate was the British emissary who dogged their footsteps. An accident detained him in the mountains until the snows came on; and when at last he reached the coast it was on Fraser's River, far to the north of the Columbia, and which he mistook for one of the northern branches of that river. Thus, for the second time, Fortune, Fate, Providence, or what you choose to name the invincible destiny, signified to whom the empire should be given.

Although the Congress of the United States did not doubt the American title to the territories lying on the Pacific, north of one certain boundary, and south of one hardly less certain, as having been acquired both by discovery and purchase, yet it was very well understood that England meant to question that title; and therefore when John Jacob Astor, in 1810, conceived his great scheme of establishing a commerce at the mouth of the Columbia, Congress, headed by the President, promised protection and support to his undertakings. Occupation and colonization were safe and sure methods of securing the territory about which it might be inconvenient to go to war. But now again the Northwest Company jealously watching the American movement, endeavored to reach the mouth of the Columbia before Mr. Astor's company; and again, prevented by an accident, only reached that point after Astoria had been built, and garrisoned in the half-military style that the presence of powerful Indian tribes made necessary. The war of 1812, the treachery of Mr. Astor's partners several of whom had been formerly in the employ of the Northwest Company—and the pusillanimous behavior of Congress after the close of the war, virtually defeated for a time the prospects of an American settlement on the shores of the Pacific. The Northwest Company, to whom Mr. Astor's British partners had sold out his trading posts on the Columbia, had obtained possession for purposes of trade; and finally, being merged in the Hudson's Bay Company, retained it under sanction of the convention of 1818, which left the boundary question an open one, and permitted the subjects of either country to hunt, fish, and trade without hindrance in the territory west of the Rocky Mountains for a period of ten years.

It was now that a struggle of diplomacy really began between the Government of Great Britain and that of the United States to bring about a settlement of their conflicting claims to the mouth of the Columbia, and the navigation of that river. Neither nation desired to go to war about it. The United States could not afford it. Great Britain remembered her former experiences in fighting her half-civilized relations on their own soil, and judged it would be an awkward piece of business to attempt a seizure of American territory.

In the decade following the convention of 1818, by a treaty with Spain the southern and south-western boundaries of the United States became fixed, it being agreed that along the forty-second parallel the line should extend to the Pacific; all the territory north of that line to which Spain had ever laid claim, to belong to the United States. The Spanish discoveries extend to latitude 54° 40'. Beyond that, the Russians claimed the coast. This allotment was anything but agreeable to Great Britain, who, through the explorations of the Hudson's Bay Company, had obtained possession of a large extent of inland territory north of the forty ninth parallel. The Columbia River, reaching by its great branches far into the interior of the continent, and having its mouth in a climate of almost perpetual spring, must not be given up without a close struggle.

Both Governments weighed their claims over and over in their secret councils of State. The United States bounded their claim on the following several points:

The settlement at the mouth of the Columbia by Mr. Astor; and the principle "that the discovery and occupation of the mouth of a river gives title to the entire territory drained by it."

The treaty of Ghent, in 1814, by which all places taken from the United States during the war of 1812 were restored, Astoria being one of them; and primarily by the treaty of Utrecht, in 1713, by which France came to an agreement with Great Britain concerning the northern boundary of Louisiana—said boundary to be the forty ninth parallel from a point near or at the Lake of the Woods, indefinitely westward. And also by the treaty of Versailles, in 1763, by which the boundary question between France and Great Britain in North America was definitely settled—France owning the territory south of a line due west from the source of the Mississippi, and Great Britain that east of the Mississippi and north of the forty ninth parallel. Subsequently, the right of Great Britain to the territory east of the Mississippi was lost through the war of the Revolution, and her claim confined to the territory north of the forty ninth parallel. No western boundary ever being spoken of.

The last point was that of contiguity.

As for Great Britain's pretensions to the territory drained by the Columbia river, the points sought to be made were these

Discovery

Contiguity

The comparison of claims brought to light a mass of evidence by no means flattering to the hopes of British diplomatists. Spanish records, and Spanish officers, furnished many incontrovertible facts concerning discovery and occupation. The officers and log books of the despised Yankee trading vessels completed the evidence, and, unfortunately, fixed a certain taint of falsehood, very hard to be borne, upon British officers high in the favor of the Government. As for contiguity if Great Britain succeeded in establishing her right to extend her territory to the Pacific north of the forty-ninth parallel, she would still come out several degrees north of the mouth of the Columbia.

Thus affairs remained during the ten years following the convention of 1818. The United States was waiting to regain strength. Great Britain, perhaps, waiting for the same thing. In 1827 the convention was renewed for another ten years, provided, that "on giving due notice of twelve months to the other contracting party" either party might cause the agreement to be annulled and abrogated.

What both contracting parties desired to bring about was the occupation of the country by actual settlers, who would hold it by the right of possession for their own Government. That the English Government was not able to do this was a part of the special providence for which we are putting in this plea. For the Government of the United States seemed about this time to be under a spell, which, while it was pretended to be prudence, looked excessively like timidity. After refusing to sustain Mr. Astor in re-establishing his business on the Columbia, or to listen to the importunities of other private citizens who were enthusiastically enamored of different projects for settling the valley of the Columbia, it quietly ignored the growing power of the Hudson's Bay Company, extending from the mouth of that river to its northern and southern sources. Fourteen years after the convention of 1818 the thirty or forty thousand Indians west of the Rocky Mountains had nearly all become more or less subject to the Hudson's Bay Company, whose employes moved among them with tolerable security, while American fur companies who ventured into the mountains from the eastern side, were forced to contend for every inch of the way. That they contend for it, and encroached every year more and more on savage territory, defying the Indians and Hudson's Bay Company at once, was due to the character of their nation.

But it was not for the fur trader who first made Destiny manifest: it was quite a different character. It was the missionary. It is always, or generally, we will say, your missionary who becomes the avant courrier of commerce; and in that capacity might claim to be supported by the State as well as the Church. It seems like inverting the natural order of thing; but man proposes, God disposes. News had been received by the various churches in the East, through the medium of the St. Louis Fur Company, that certain Indians west of the Rocky Mountains were inquiring about the white man's God. This was a call the Christian heart could not withstand, imbued as it was at that time with highly romantic notions of saving the red man's soul, alas! to be violently dispelled after years of useless labor among them.

California Sugar Refinery.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin.]

The California Sugar Refinery having, from several causes, had an unusually successful year in 1869, have built an addition to their works of far greater manufacturing capacity than the original building. The company commenced in April, 1865, with the means of making 25,000 pounds of white sugar per day. They increased it to 40,000 pounds per day in 1868, and the new machinery can turn out 140,000 pounds per day, or four ounces of table sugar per day for every inhabitant of California. There are four other refineries to share the trade of the coast. The new main building is 100 feet long, 85 feet wide, and five stories high, and built earthquake proof. The lower story is for packing; the second contains the centrifugal pans; the third is for mixing; the fourth contains the receiving tanks or settlers; and the fifth the receiving tanks, the great vacuum boiling pan, weighing 32 tons, and heated by coils of steam pipes; the planking machine, which cakes the sugar, and the drying kilns. The foundation brick was laid by the President, Claus Spreckles, on the last day of 1868. The total cost of the new building and machinery is $250,000. The engine, built by the Political News.

RICHMOND, July 30.—The State Journal publishes a letter from General Butler to the citizens of Virginia, in which he refers to the test oath of members of the Legislature. Butler's opinion is quite clear that it is within the power of the Government, and within the requirements of the laws of Congress to set aside men who cannot take the test oath and admit their Union opponents to seats as being the choice of the only men voting who are fit for representatives of loyal men and not traitors to the Government. Butler admits that Congress is the only power which can remove the necessity of taking the oath.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Col. Jenkins, Chairman of the Wells wing of the Republican Central Committee, has written a long letter to Dr. Gilman, Chairman of the Walker wing, reviewing the politics of Virginia for the past few months. He claims that there was no essential difference in the principles supported by the Walker and the majority of the Wells men. He says the divisions in the party were more personal than anything else.

Johnson makes overtures for uniting the wings of the Republican party on a liberal basis, in which all who were really Union may combine whether they were really blue or gray.

Chief Justice Chase has left for Mississippi entirely satisfied with his reception and the assurance given by the President and members of the Cabinet.

It is certain that Dent will get no support from the Administration, as the President will leave each member of the Cabinet to control his proper department.

The Republicans will nominate a straight out ticket, and feel confident of electing by 10,000 majority.

Nothing has occurred to show that the President will interfere in the coming election in Mississippi, but he will, if necessary, appoint a District Commander to supersede a Board of Registration for [illegible] one Radical, one Conservative and one [illegible].

He had not authorized any [illegible] to state otherwise. Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—William Miehler, of Easton, is appointed Chairman of the State Democratic Committee.

Ex-Governor [illegible] has issued a formal letter of acceptance to the Committee appointed to notify him of his nomination for Governor. He pledges himself, if elected, to labor to secure the prosecution of the Pacific Railroad, the reduction of the expenses of the State to the lowest practical point, to encourage a liberal system of improvements for the interest of labor, a just execution of laws, involving a cautious and upright use of the pardoning power, the promotion of educational enterprises, the restoration of purity and character to our elections by punishing fraud or preventing upon [illegible] and suppression and all improper use of money in the management of the public funds, and a careful attention by the Government to the interests of labor. He concluded his letter by saying that inasmuch as his pursuits and training have not qualified him for speech-making or the solicitation of votes, he will not be expected to undertake the performance of active duties in the campaign, but refers the public to the record of his life, conduct and character already before them.

Judge Cushing has also written a letter of acceptance of nomination for Supreme Judge.

New York News.

Nearly all the securities stolen from the Ocean Bank have been recovered by negotiations with the burglars in ways which the officers decline to reveal. Among the securities stolen were $50,000 in bonds of the Portage Lake Superior Canal Company. The President of the bank received a letter asking what he would give for the return of these bonds. He offered $10,000, which the burglars declined to accept, saying they would only sell the bonds for a fair price.

The Board of Health say they have effectually cleaned the east district of the city of cholera and small pox.

Tennessee Affairs.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A special from Washington says Stokes was taken unwell at Murfreesboro to-day and did not speak. A large crowd was assembled, mostly rebels, whose conduct was riotous and disgraceful in the extreme. Drunken and infuriated men threatened death to every Republican present and even threatened to kill Stokes as he lay in the hotel. There is little doubt but what he would have been murdered if he had appeared upon the stand. The Republicans in that vicinity are completely intimidated and will not poll one fifth of their strength.

Col. Wood, late Chief of the Secret Service Bureau of the Treasury Department has issued a pamphlet written in a bitterly hostile spirit [illegible] threats of what he will do to embarass the Secretary. They appear in nowise dispirited at the recent turn of affairs in New York, and look upon the recent dissension in the Junta as more calculated to injure the members individually concerned, than prove detrimental to the cause of Cuban independence. FACTS WORTH KNOWING!

IF YOU WANT TO BUY A FARM YOU EXAMINE the soil, the lay, the locality, the title and the price. If you want to insure your life examine the workings of the Company before you invest.

If you examine you will

INSURE IN THE NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY!

WHY?

BECAUSE you get your first DIVIDEND to HELP PAY YOUR SECOND PREMIUM. You do not have to wait 3 or 4 years for the distributions.

BECAUSE we have NO STOCKHOLDERS to draw from 12 to 25 per cent on imaginary CAPITAL STOCK (personal promises to pay) amounting from $30,000 to $50,000 annually.

Because the NEW ENGLAND is a Mutual and is a Home Company in all our broad and beautiful country, an American Institution—the first one formed on the PURELY MUTUAL plan on this Continent.

BESIDES it is the only Company offering you the protection of the Massachusetts Law.

For example. A person aged 35, insures for $1,000, pays $26 60 any on the 1st July, 1869. Were he to die on the 4th July, 1874, 2 years and 3 days after, his policy would be paid. Thus

Say amount Policy is	$1,000 00
Deduct two annual payments he has not paid, $26 50 each, and interest	54 62
The family would receive	945 38

No Snap Judgment here. This is what we call EQUITABLE and MUTUAL.

Five annual payments keep the Policy in force 10 years and 60 days.

Policies on which Note has been given for one-third of the Premiums.

Five payments will continue in force nearly five years after 3 payments have ceased.

On ENDOWMENT POLICY the time is prolonged in proportion to the amount paid.

Take the statements of no solicitor for other Companies of our benificent workings, but call and satisfy yourselves. We will be pleased at all time to communicate every information.

THE New England Mutual

Is the only Company on this Coast that offers the above advantages to Policy-Holders.

The above examples are facts that are incontrovertible, and will be proven to the satisfaction of all persons calling on our agents.

HIRAM SMITH'S

Ophthalmic Panacea!

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered.

IT CURES the most stubborn and hopeless cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been brought into public notice. The proprietor is fully convinced of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm, and a trial of it is therefore without injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS' standing in Harrisburg, Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity, to which the following persons will bear witness:

E. B. MOORE,	NATHANIEL BELL,
A. L. WALLACE,	G. R. WARD,
Mrs. MONTGOMERY,	JOHN M. HOLLOWAY,
W. D. PORTER,	ROBT. RAMSEY,

And others in that vicinity.

Persons afflicted with the distressing scourge of diseased eyes are advised to give this remedy a fair trial on the NO CURE, NO PAY and NO INJURY plan.

Skillmore, Assistant; Mrs. M. A. Olinkenboard, Teacher of French. Wm. F. T. Grubbe is the only graduate for 1869. The institution was founded in 1854, and chartered in 1857. During the last year a new building has been added capable of seating one hundred pupils. For the benefit of those desiring to teach, a teachers' course has been added. A commercial course is added for those desiring simply a business education. The Senior class for 1869 numbers three; the Junior class, twenty-five; the Sub-Junior, forty-seven; the Preparatory, forty-two; the Primary, thirteen; total, 129. The next quarter will open August 23d.

RETURNED FROM PUGET SOUND.—Mr. S. T. Church has just returned from a tour to Puget Sound and Victoria. He reports that "For about forty miles northward from Montesano in Washington Territory, the forest is almost a continuous mass of lumbering timber. In many places the fire was burning up to each side of the road as the stages passed. Trees were falling in every direction, and the noise was almost suffocating. The hair on the horses legs were frequently scorched as the team was driven over hot ashes in the road. A few days before Mr. Church passed over the road, fire fell into the stage and set on fire the dress of lady passengers. Thousands and thousands of dollars worth of property have been destroyed by the terrible conflagration.

DOWN THE COLUMBIA.—The Light House Tender, Shubrick, has returned to Astoria, after a voyage of inspection to the light houses on the Sound.

The channel at the mouth of the Columbia is to be surveyed shortly by the officers of the U. S. Survey schooner Hyndeldt.

A considerable number of visitors from Portland and other points in the interior are at Astoria or the Summer House at Clatsop Beach. Quite a number of people went down on Saturday. Arrigoni's hotel is said to be crowded.

SUNDAY AT NEW PENNSYLVANIA.—Several of the pulpits of this city were occupied by new preachers yesterday. Rev. J. S. [illegible] D. D., who arrived on Friday by the Pacific, preached in the morning at the Taylor Church; Rev. F. [illegible] in the afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church; Rev. C. J. S. Brescher, Missionary of the Lutheran Home Missionary Society, just out from Ohio, preached in the morning at the old Taylor-street M. E. Church; Wm. Hunter and Rev. Dr. Thomas [illegible] at the new M. E. Church; and Rev. O. [illegible], Superintendent of the Chinese Mission of the Pacific coast, delivered an address at 8 P. M. at the M. E. Church.

NOTABLE ARRIVALS.—Quite a number of notable people arrived by the steamer of Saturday, among whom were Bishop Wiley, Rev. O. T. [illegible], Rev. Dr. Rackus, Rev. O. [illegible], Hons. Nathan Cole, Mayor of the City of St. Louis, Hon. J. J. Orick, Supervisor of the Mission, Gen. [illegible], Col. [illegible] of the U. S. Army, B. S. Faulkner, correspondent of the New York Times, J. Nottingham, one of the North Pacific Railroad party, and several others, merchants from the Eastern States, U. S. officials, etc. Most of the number are here only as visitors, while a part of the summer in learning the character and resources of the Pacific coast.

THE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.—The Bulletin of the 27th ult. says: "The Committee of Ways and Means of the House of Representatives took their departure last week on the Sacramento boat, on their way overland. During their stay of about one month on this coast, they have [illegible] a large amount of business here and in Contra Costa. They have investigated the affairs of the Branch Mint, the Custom House, Sub-Treasury, etc. The Alaska fur trade has undergone an overhauling investigation, and the Committee leave with a good opinion of the manner in which the officials on the coast have transacted their business."

U. S. DISTRICT COURT—DRADY, JUDGE.—The United States District Court will convene this morning. The following is a list of the grand jurors summoned: John Stipp, [illegible], J. J. Allen, Geo. S. Pershin, Andrew Pullen, Z. Russell, A. J. Diggs, Asa Strong, M. B. Campbell, John A. [illegible], John M. Pugh, J. H. Bridges, David McCully, Wesley Shannon, A. F. Wheeler, Seth Lindley, J. H. [illegible]at, B. O. Sevearance, E. L. Bristow, F. B. Dunn, J. G. Gray, Wm. Osborn, James Royal, W. H. Harris, [illegible].

THE PORTLAND LETTER SHEET.—A new folio publication with this title, has been laid upon our table. It is nicely filled with extracts from the daily papers of the city, and is [illegible] form for information. It also contains some tables of value to the general reader, one or two of which we have appropriated. The [illegible] is not announced, though it proposes to appear once a week, "for home circulation and transmission abroad."

REAL ESTATE AGENT AND COLLECTOR OF CLAIMS.—We call attention to the new advertisements of Mr. Wm. Davidson, one of the most successful agents in this city for the collection of claims and the sale of real estate. He informs us that he has now in hand many valuable lots and tracts of land for sale. Those desiring to purchase, should give him a call. And in the way of collections, a claim that he can't collect, might as well be shunned.

MACHINE KNITTING.—We have been shown samples of knitting done upon Lamb's patent machine, by Mr Hogan. One of the samples is a pair of socks, knit in thirty-five minutes, complete without sewing. The other is a new style of crochet tidy—very pretty. Both samples are as perfect in their way as any hand knitting. The machine can be made to do almost any kind of knitting from a sock to a shawl or bed coverlet. Mr. N. D. Stafford, of East Portland, is agent.

DROWNED AT RAINIER.—A man by the name of Reed was drowned at Rainier last Friday. He went out on the logs [illegible] by the boom to place a log on the carriage. A log turning, he went into the river, but as the hands in the mill supposed he could swim, no one went to his assistance till too late. His body was soon after recovered by Capt. Crockett, of the schooner Meldon, who dove to the bottom for it.

LECTURE ON THE CHINESE.—Rev. C. Gibson—for ten years a Missionary in China—will lecture under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, at the M. E. Church, at 7½ o'clock this evening. Subject—"Chinese at Home, and why they are here." Mr. Gibson has drawn large audiences in California and, we learn, is both instructive and interesting. Go and hear him.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE WILLAMETTE.—The P. T. Co. have men constantly at work upon the bars of the Willamette river above Oregon City, deepening the channel or building wing dams to enable the boats to cross the numerous bars which obstruct navigation at low water. They intend to keep their boats going as long as there is a heavy dew to run upon.

PRESERVATION.—One or two of the Chinese firms of this city have presented the Captain of the bark Oneonta with a native flag, on which is printed in Chinese characters the inscription "Good Captain—Good Ship." This is a flattering testimonial to Captain Wythe, and one that he justly deserves.

GOING TO SALEM.—Hon. Nathan Cole, Mayor of the city of St. Louis, who arrived by the last steamer, went to Salem yesterday. He will be absent in the interior for only a few days, after which he and the rest of the St Louis party will go up the Columbia, and probably to Puget Sound.

VELOCIPEDE RAFFLE.—That beautiful Pickering velocipede, the best finished vehicle of the kind ever brought to this State, will be raffled off at Ned Wicks' campaign rooms, as soon as all chances are taken. It can be seen at that place to-day and till raffled off. Call and take a chance.

NEW WHEAT.—Mr. Cris. Taylor, of Dayton, Yamhill county, arrived in town on Saturday. He says that he has a consignment of new wheat on the way—to arrive to-day. Mr. T says emphatically that Yamhill is the biggest county in the State—in the way of business.

AT CHAMPOEG.—About forty hands are now employed in the building of the new sawmill, at Cementville, near the mouth of the Columbia river. It is expected that the mill will be ready to start by the first of September.

SENATOR WILLIAMS.—We learn that Senator Williams arrived at Boise City on the 24th ult., and may be expected home some time this week. At the request of the citizens of Eastern Oregon, he will make speeches at two or three of the principal towns on his way down.

BASE BALL.—The Tiger club of Oregon City and the Athletic club of this city, played a match game at East Portland on Saturday, resulting in thirty-two runs for the former and nineteen for the latter. There was some handsome playing on both sides.

FOR PORTLAND.—The San Francisco Bulletin of the 27th ult., says: "The bark Alcalde has been laid on for Portland in the regular packet line, will commence to receive freight on Friday morning."

SEE THE CALL for the meeting of the Committee on Immigration. A general attendance is requested at the Council Chamber to-morrow evening, as the Committee will then report their plan of action.

SMOKE AGAIN.—Since Saturday the wind has been northerly, and, in consequence, we have again into the engagement (?) of smoky weather—almost as thick as before the south wind began.

PORTLAND BASE BALL CLUB.—There will be a meeting of this club at Joseph Buchtel's Gallery at half past seven o'clock this evening. A full attendance is requested.

TO SAIL.—The bark Adeline Elwood is advertised to sail from this port direct to New York, on or about the first of September next.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.—The Circuit Court for this county, Judge Upton presiding, will convene to day, pursuant to adjournment.

TO SAIL.—The Gussie Telfair will sail for Puget Sound and Victoria to-morrow afternoon.

FOURTH PAGE.—Saturday's telegraphic dispatches will be found on the fourth page.

The Montana Republican says: The ancient camp of Bannack is enjoying the benefit of the ditch improvements of Messrs. Smith & Bracher. There is no lack of water, and the placers and gulches are being very thoroughly and profitably worked, giving employment to from 400 to 500 hands all the while. The mills located there are changing their motive power from steam to water, which greatly lessens the expense of running. There will be at least twice the quantity of gold taken out at Bannack than any former year, this season.

One of the Quaker Indian agents has made a good beginning. Friend Janney, agent for the Pawnees, who comes from Virginia, lately stopped the payment of annuities until some of the tribe who had murdered a white man should be surrendered for punishment. The Indians tried to get around him by various false pretences, but he remained inflexible, and after a while six of the murderers were brought in and surrendered, and the squad out for plunder and massacre, evidently with the connivance of the rest, were recalled. Now if Friend Janney will so far forget his Quaker doctrines for the time as to see to it that the murderers are properly punished, he will be a success, whether the Quaker policy is so or not.

MEETING OF THE IMMIGRATION COMMITTEE.—There will be a meeting of the citizens of Portland on Tuesday evening, August 3d, at the Council Chamber, for the purpose of receiving and taking action on the report of the Committee on Organization.

By order of the President,

C. P. FERRY, Sec'y.

A DAY or two since we spoke of the number of Eastern made carriages which are constantly coming to this town for our pleasure loving citizens. But having seen some of W. E. COOPER'S work we wonder that people do not patronize home manufactures. He has just turned out for Pat. Smith the neatest pony carriage or English phaeton that could be made anywhere. The body is basket shape, on low wheels, and is got up in as good style and at as low a price as any of the imported carriages. In fact Cooper need not feel ashamed to say it is his work.

EVERY DAY, at No. 107 Front street, one door above McCormick's, you can see KANE'S CONDENSED SOAP wash without rubbing.

G. F. TRAIN preaches but does not always practice—for he patronized the Oregon Dispensary and used our medicines to cure his hands that caught those large Salmon. Since his lectures on DOCTORS and DRUG STORES, we have had an unprecedented run for our numerous remedies, toilet articles, etc., etc. It has been said that Mr. Train was induced by us to deliver that lecture, but we assure our numerous patrons that we do not use such means to obtain patronage. We do the largest trade because our Druggists are the most competent and our medicines and goods are fresh, pure and cheap.

NOTICE.

WE TAKE PLEASURE IN CALLING the attention of dealers to a valuable Patented Improvement in Electro-Plating Spoons and Forks, by which those parts most exposed to wear receive an EXTRA COAT OF SILVER!

THREE TIMES THE USUAL THICKNESS, viz: on the back of the handle, bowl of the spoon and points of bowls of spoons—back of the handle and breast and points of tines of forks, as illustrated in cut.)

This mode of Electro-Plating greatly supercedes the old way of plating. The great advantage will be readily seen, as spoons and forks always wear through on these exposed points, while the plate is yet good on other parts of the article. This new process will add THREE TIMES TO THE DURABILITY of goods so plated.

Knives, forks and spoons stamped "1847 ROGERS BROTHERS A1 XII," are Electro Plated by the new Patented Process.

We have now been before the public since 1852, manufacturing ELECTRO-PLATED GOODS, which have stood the most severe tests of wear in hotels, steamers and private families, and have given universal satisfaction, supplying, as it does, all of the advantages of silver in durability and beauty. We wish to call particular attention to the hardness and firmness of our White Metal, which exceeds anything of the kind made in this country. All goods plated on this metal bear our trade mark, and the plating is warranted THREE TIMES THE USUAL THICKNESS.

The scale is four miles to an inch, making the map sixty-seven by fifty-five inches. ENDORSEMENTS.

C. A. WHITE, Esq.—Dear Sir: Having examined your original map, embracing that portion of Washington Territory west of the Cascade Range, I desire to add my testimony to its value. Having been engaged for a number of years in the surveys from Cape Flattery to the Head of Puget Sound, I have examined this portion of your map more critically than others, and I take pleasure in vouching for its general correctness.

This map will fill a want that has long been felt, not only among the residents of this Territory, but others, who are desirous of obtaining information of this portion of the "Far West," and I trust that we shall soon see it in a form suitable for general distribution.

JAS. S. LAWSON,
Asst. U. S. C. S.

We endorse the annexed opinion of Jas. S. Lawson, Esq., and will add that Mr. Chas. A. White is a practical surveyor, and has had access to the township maps in the two Land Offices in this Territory, as also the Coast Survey charts; and we can vouch for his map of Washington Territory, west of the Cascade Range of Mountains, as being correct, and the only good map of the same territory that has been made.

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 2, 1869.

Of Interest to Our Farmers.

Owing to our distance from the final market our agricultural products prices here are necessarily low, and our farmers cannot produce grain at rates which will enable them to pay for the labor which they must necessarily employ. Production is therefore limited, compared with what it would be if the agriculturist had a margin of profit left after paying for the "help" which he is compelled to have to secure his crops. Increased production is impossible until cheaper labor can be obtained; and how to obtain and utilize that cheaper labor is a problem of the greatest interest to every land owner in Oregon.

Agriculturists elsewhere are looking to the Chinese for a supply of cheap labor, and if the farmers of Oregon would not fall entirely behind and find themselves distanced in the competition, they must do the same thing. It is just as necessary for us in Oregon to be able to produce wheat cheaply so that we can maintain a standing in the markets, as it is for the South to be able to produce cotton at low rates. In the present harvest in California large numbers of Chinamen are employed, and by next year they will be the principle reliance there for that portion of the farm work which is not done by machinery. The farmers of California are thus obtaining an advantage over those of Oregon. They are not only nearer the final market, but they are obtaining cheaper labor; and the result of this will be that the farmer in California will make money and prosper, while the farmer in Oregon will have close work to keep his business from running him in debt. The only way out of this dilemma is to take measures to secure the same class of cheap labor which all the other States of our Union are now endeavoring to obtain.

The employment of Chinamen in our wheat fields will not bring about any competition between them and white laborers, for as matters now stand there are few farmers who can afford to employ white laborers and pay the customary wages. The question is, shall our farmers have cheap labor or none at all? Shall they avail themselves of an opportunity to employ that kind of labor which will enable them to produce wheat for export and bring money into the State, or shall they decline this species of labor, allow their lands to lie idle and permit their more enterprising neighbors to enjoy the profit which is to be made by employing cheap labor in the production of grain?

This is a subject which commends itself to the attention of every farmer in the State. If they allow their judgment to be warped by the declamation of political demagogues whose only interest in the subject grows out of their hope of being able to use it as a hobby to ride into office, they will find that more and more people in California and [illegible] will [illegible] of the [illegible] and rich, while Oregon lags behind. Our [illegible] are already employing Chinese [illegible] also to [illegible] of laborers who can [illegible] idle lands into [illegible] and thus bring shipping to our ports [illegible] to our State, create wealth here among us, and enable us to start the thousand new industries that our climate [illegible]

Wages and Cost of Living.

One of strong arguments against the advocates by this country of any system looking to free trade is that it would reduce the wages of our well-paid mechanics to the European level. To this the free traders reply that the mechanics of England are really as well off as our own, because their wages, though nominally lower, will buy enough to make up for the nominal difference. But the following fact, which we copy from the great free trade organ of New York, the World, is a poser to any theory:

[illegible] Saturday at Castle Garden from one [illegible] and fifteen hundred passengers, a large number of whom are Irish, who have been able to leave their native isle because the price of labor has fallen so low that they could no longer provide for their families. About one-half of them came from Germany, Sweden and Norway, and the rest from the British Isles. Most of the Englishmen had been employed in the various departments of house building. They say that persons receive for their work about $4 50 per week in the country, and $7 50 in the cities, in gold; and prices about the same, and [illegible] from $3 to $5 in gold, while the cost of living was about $3 a week, and most manage to live at that, leaving scarcely anything for clothes.

It appears from this statement that the English mechanic, in the country at least, gets but little more for a week's work than an American mechanic does for a day's work, and yet has to pay nearly as much for his support. Probably if the Englishman lived as well as the American it would cost him full as much. The superior condition of the American mechanic is due chiefly to our system of protection.

The New York "World" on the Chinese.

The San Francisco Chronicle refers again to the foolish and demagogical speech against the Chinese recently delivered at San Francisco by Senator Casserly, and remarks that if the Senator intended to discourage the importation of Chinese to this country, when describing them as "the most frugal, industrious and ingenious race on the face of the earth," the result of that expression shows that he "put his foot in it." He undoubtedly intended to prejudice his laboring fellow countrymen against Chinamen by showing that by their skill as laborers they would become formidable rivals. He seemed to forget that the traits he ascribed they possessed would cause a demand for their services by the manufacturers and planters of the Eastern and Southern States. As a proof that Casserly's indorsement has had the effect of giving a new impetus to Chinese immigration and placed the aristocratic "Democrats" of the East on the side of the coolie importers, we give the following extract from that orthodox Democratic organ, the New York World:

> An opinion like this, from a source so intelligent, will only confirm the Southern planters in their hopeful estimate of the advantages of employing Chinese labors. There is no law to prevent their coming; and if the negroes should object, like the California miners, they have no power to prohibit the owners of plantations from consulting their own interests. Considering the view taken of this subject by the South, we doubt whether Senator Casserly will succeed in making opposition to Chinese immigration a Democratic issue

The German translation of Mr. Bowles' "Across the Continent," published at Leipsic, with the title "From Ocean to Ocean," opened with a very odd geographical blunder. The translator knew of Springfield, Ill., and not of Springfield, Mass; and so his first chapter carries the reader from Springfield, Illinois, through Buffalo, Cleveland and Chicago, to the Missouri River.

In General.

Mrs. H C Victor, already well known in Oregon as a talented writer, has just returned from the East where she has been engaged for some time upon a "Life" of the old pioneer, Joseph Meek. We have no doubt that the book will possess much historical value and shall await its appearance with interest It will be put, we learn, sometime this fall.

The Engineering and Mining Journal, in reply to a question from a correspondent relative to giant powder, says "This powder is nothing but nitro-glycerine, reduced to dryness by combining it with hydrated silica. The latter substance may be obtained from waterglass by means of an acid which precipitates a gelatinous mass from it. This mass when dry is an impalpable powder, and as such is found in natural deposits in California, where giant powder is manufactured. Mr. Nobel, who patented several explosives, also possesses a patent for this one. It is also manufactured in New York City."

The Herald has another "Sunday Leader," which is quite as "flighty" and ridiculous as its last one. Protesting against Chinese immigration, it says: "That the Chinese, if our present policy is pursued much longer, will outnumber, as twenty to one, the whites of America, is a foregone conclusion." Look at this for a moment. The population of the United States is 40,000,000. If the Chinese are to outnumber us "as twenty to one," there would be an influx of 800,000,000 of Chinese, which is just twice as many as there are in China Does the Herald hold it to be good morality to tell such "yarns" as this in a "Sunday Leader?"

The Sacramento Reporter says that Rhode Island does not wish the Amendment because it "prevents them from disfranchising Irish Catholics." To this the Union keenly replies: "If that be so, had not the Irish Catholics of California better turn in and help ratify an Amendment which is thus confessed to guarantee their rights? Are we to understand the Democracy to favor such disfranchisement? Certainly if the Amendment prevents discrimination of the kind described, California should supply the place of Rhode Island in the list of ratifying States, if, for such a reason, Rhode Island backs out of line. We do not favor sectarian tests here."

OREGON.

The schooner Louisa Simpson, Capt. Widant, sailed for San Francisco on the 22d instant, with 105,000 feet of lumber, from the Premier Mills, Yaquina Bay.

Grant county, according to the Journal, has a whole number of claims, 88. Acres fenced, 9,064; cultivated, 3,608. Three claims fenced, 400, 250 and 200 acres. Average size, 103 acres.

From the Corvallis paper: "It is an ill wind that blows no good." Since the late fire, mechanics and laborers have been, and are still, in great demand. The "music of hammer and saw," and rattle of drays, have not been so incessant as now for many a day in Corvallis.

The Albany Democrat suggests the following further "improvements" for the Herald: There are one or two other changes that can be made put the head on the third page and fold the paper inside out, and the motto over the editorial column altered by substituting the word "Portland" for "Oregon."

From the Unionist: The members of the State Teachers' Association have found by experience that July is not a convenient time for holding their annual meeting, and they accordingly have changed the time to the last week in December. The Association will hold its next convention at Portland during the holidays, between December 25th, '69f and January 1st, '70.

Large quantities of new wheat are coming in at Albany. The Register says: The reports from all parts of Linn county are to the effect that winter wheat is yielding as well if not better than last season, while late sown spring wheat is a partial failure. One farmer realized 2,500 bushels of wheat from ground that he expected to yield but 1,500. The yield is generally in excess of the anticipations formed. It is thought that the total crop of Linn county will be at least one-third larger than that of last year. So far we have heard of no oats, new crop, being offered.

The Corvallis Gazette thus talks to our "flighty" neighbor: The Herald accuses the OREGONIAN of being mealy-mouthed, etc. We shall not meddle in the war between these leading and metropolitan dailies; but when the Herald charges that there is an "attempt being made to work upon the feelings of Democrats in Good Templar organizations, to make their feelings of compassion for misfortune or crime to carry them over to the Republicans to vote with the Union League for the overthrow of the Republic," it insults the intelligence and patriotism of every Democrat who is not manacled by the "whisky ring."

The Unionist of Saturday has the following: Mr. S. T. Church, Secretary of the Peoples' Transportation Company, returned yesterday from his visit to Victoria. Mr. Church has fiery incidents to relate. For about forty miles northward from Monticello, in Washington Territory, the forest is almost a continual mass of burning timber. In many places the fire was burning up to each side of the road as the stage passed. Trees were falling in every direction and the smoke was almost suffocating. The hair on the horses' legs was frequently scorched as the team was driven over hot ashes in the road. A few days before Mr. Church passed over the road, fire fell into the stage and set on fire the dresses of lady passengers. Thousands and thousands of dollars worth of property has been destroyed by the terrible conflagration.

POLITICAL.

Vallandigham is in war paint, raging against Rosecrans throughout Ohio.

The Columbus Journal thinks that if the Peace Democrats can vote for Rosecrans this year, they will be able to vote next year for Phil. Sheridan or Ben. Wade for Governor of Ohio.

The Democrats of Iowa have nominated James Gillespie for Governor. This news was not deemed worth telegraphing over the country, as the nomination is merely thing of form without the smallest chance of election.

The Massachusetts Republican papers are devoting much attention to the subject of the next candidate for Governor. Governor Claflin, it is said, has no desire to go to Congress, and will accept a nomination if tendered him, as it probably will be.

The official majority for Colonel Walker for Governor in sixty six counties of Virginia is 8,655; his reported majority in the remaining thirty-six counties is 9,624 total, 18,282 Complete returns of the Senate show that it will contain thirty Conservatives and thirteen Radicals

The Ohio Republican State Central Committee held a meeting in Columbus on Wednesday, and adopted a plan for conducting the campaign. A resolution was adopted inviting Senator Morton, of Indiana, to address the people of Cincinnati at such time as he saw fit. The meeting was quite spirited.

Says the Richmond Enquirer. The result of the election here is undoubtedly the happiest act of Gen. Grant's administration, and has more of the order of nationality about it than anything which has occurred since the war. It seems to be a full acceptance of the situation by Virginia, and a full recognition of the fact of negro suffrage and negro eligibility to office.

The New York Times declares that the Democratic party has nothing in the future to compensate for present losses. It alienates support at the North by an obstinate inculcation of ideas which had their origin in the remote past at the South; and the South, meanwhile, wisely submits to the logic of events, and unitedly upholds what Democrats hereabouts denounce.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

It is stated that there are about three thousand visitors at Newport now, including General Phil. Sheridan, who has sometimes been a host in himself.

A letter from South Carolina says there is a great deal of discussion in the newspapers of this State upon the matter of introducing laborers from China, to take the place of the negroes, or, rather, to make up the deficiency of negro labor. The tendency of public opinion is decidedly toward bringing in the Chinese.

The Democratic papers, forgetting Buchanan's trip on the Harriet Lane, and Andrew Johnson's excursion on the Wyandank, are abusing President Grant for going on the Tallapoosa to Long Branch. The facts are that the Tallapoosa was not sent specially with the President, but was ordered to Brooklyn Navy-yard with freight.

Orders have been sent out from the Internal Revenue Bureau to Assessors and Collectors to investigate the newspaper charges against certain reported wealthy men of New York whose names are not to be found on the income return lists, and to take legal process against all those who are supposed to have defrauded the Government.

The Government is anxious to dispose of some of our surplus iron clads, and will sell to Spaniards or Cubans or any others who choose to buy. The President's visit to some of the South American Republics are the only persons who appear desirous to invest in these commodities at present, but they and the Secretary of the Navy cannot agree exactly on the figures.

It is stated that the journal of the convention which ratified the Federal Constitution on behalf of New Hampshire is soon to be published in book form It is to include an historical introduction by Mr. Henry B Dawson, the editor of the Historical Magazine, the newspaper articles relating to the convention published at the time, the acts of the legislature on the subject, speeches made in the convention, and last, but not least, the proceedings of each town in New Hampshire which sent a delegate to the convention

Omaha dispatches of July 19th say that General Augur returned from Fort Sedgwick that morning. Gen. Curse's victory is more complete than at first reported. Over four hundred horses and mules were captured, with a large quantity of powder and nearly five tons of buffalo meat Among the killed is the noted chief Standing Bull. About $900 were found in the camp, which was given to Mrs Weitzel, a white woman was recaptured. This was the same body of Indians who, last year, fought Gen. Forsyth, and recently committed the depredations in Kansas.

THE WEST.

California papers says that R. W. Raymond, of New York U. S. Commissioners of Mines, now in that State, will soon visit Oregon and return home by way of Idaho.

The Cheyenne Argus has the following about the census of Wyoming: "As near as we can learn the census foots up as follows: Laramie county, 2,000; Albany, 2,600 Carbon, 1,200, and Carter, 2,900; Total, 8,800.

There were, a few days since, twenty-nine vessels, with a capacity of 25,517 tons, loading at the wharves in San Francisco for distant ports. There were also, at the same time, thirty-eight vessels, having an aggregate of 28,619 tons, awaiting employment

From the Boise Statesman. The farmers of Boise valley are busily engaged in harvesting. Most of them have cut their grain and are now hard at work threshing. From all we can learn, the crop is the most abundant ever produced, not only here, but we think anywhere.

Says the Helena Herald of July 22d: The First National Bank of Helena, we are informed, has purchased, during the past ten days, upwards of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars in gold dust, most of which, after being converted into bars, has been shipped per Wells, Fargo & Co. to New York City. To-morrow about forty thousand dollars more will be run into bricks. To buy these large quantities of gold requires a few greenbacks The shipment of so much bullion is an evidence that the brooks and ditches supplying our miners with water have not all dried up, notwithstanding the great drouth which prevails in Montana

To HERBERT BIRD, Esq., Adjuster Phœnix Ins. Co., Hartford—DEAR SIR: Allow me to acknowledge the receipt in U. S. GOLD COIN, of the amount of my loss by the fire of the 21st inst.

The payment of a claim on the second day after the fire, is proof that the confidence placed by the people of Oregon in the bur'n like promptness and good faith of the Phœnix Insurance Company of Hartford, and its representatives, is well merited; and I take this opportunity of assuring you of my good will towards the Company, and wishing them the same success in the future that has, so far, attended their business in this State.
